Dedicated to specialised Recruitment, optimised Performance and mitigated Risk.

RPR Star - Steven Dennis

Steven has been highly sought after by numerous companies during recent months, where a lot of companies have slowed down and now have reduced staff. Steven has been requested by at least two clients for work and is currently working on a project that should last till November.

Steven brings a strong skills base, a can do attitude and a friendly personality to all and every interaction he has with RPR, clients and colleagues. Steven is quick to recommend highly skilled Electricians that he would vouch for and this has led to growth in the electrical sector for RPR trades a few months ago with all his recommendations getting placed into roles.

How to boost motivation & increase productivity

Whether it's work, exercise, study or skill-building, we need motivation to achieve what we want in life. After months of COVID restrictions, increased stress and emotional exhaustion, many people are struggling with low motivation. This can lead to us being less productive and not achieving what we want to achieve, reducing our self-esteem and overall happiness.

This month, we will look at what motivation is and how you can boost your productivity to get back on track.

COVID - News Release

VIC : Two weeks on from stage three restrictions being reimposed in 36 Melbourne suburbs, experts say the coming days will prove critical in determining whether stricter lockdown measures are working.

On July 1, Victoria was dealing with 370 active COVID-19 cases. By today (17/7/20), the number of active cases had jumped to 2,138, fuelled by outbreaks linked to public housing towers, a school, aged care centres and several workplaces.

NSW : Coronavirus cases in NSW continue to increase with 28 cases now linked to the Crossroads Hotel in Casula, sparking fears the state will follow Victoria's lead and head into a second lockdown. The Crossroads cluster has highlighted COVID-19's ability to spread. For more click here

QLD: has one new case of COVID-19 to report 13 July, bringing total cases to 1071. A woman in her 30s from the Sunshine Coast tested positive after recently returning from overseas. The woman is in hotel quarantine and is being managed by Metro North Hospital and Health Service. Queensland currently has four active COVID-19 cases.

Toolbox - Sharps & Lacerations

Laceration injuries and their recovery can vary in severity from quite minor to significant. Think about the difference between a paper cut versus a deep laceration requiring stitches versus the potential loss of a limb and how such injuries would change your life. It's always better to have avoided an injury rather than to have to recover from one.

Lacerations are often caused by contact with sharp edges, pinch points, putting our hands into or in between moving parts, misusing cutting devices (like utility knives or saws) or sometimes even miscommunication.
